

FIVE CHANGES MADE IN TEACHING STAFF

MISS EVA BOSTWICK SUCCEEDS MISS KIMBALL.

Lively Debate Over the Matter of Salary, the Rule Making the Amount of Salary Dependent Upon Term of Service Being Upheld in the End.

Several changes in the teaching force were made by the school board last evening, and action was taken to relieve the board of responsibility in the suits against Clark & Stewart.

President Goldin stated that when the suits were brought against Clark & Stewart, the new High School building contractors, the city was made a party to the suits. Now that the suits had all been consolidated, President Goldin suggested that the money in the hands of the board, amounting to about $6,400, be turned over to the court so that the school board might be relieved of all responsibility and the court be left to decide to whom it should be paid.

On motion of Commissioner Hayner, the clerk was instructed to draw an order transferring the money from the city treasurer to the order of the court.

B. B. Hilt, janitor of the Jefferson school, was permitted to take a vacation to go to Philadelphia, he having arranged with Janitor L. M. Nelson, of the court house, to attend to his duties during his absence.

New High School Assistant Commissioner Clemons from the committee on teachers presented this report:

1st. That Miss Edna Hill be appointed to the fifth and sixth grades of the Grant school at a salary of $42 per month.

2nd. That Miss Ada L. Brandt, Milton Junction, Wis., be appointed to the sixth grade and principalship of the Adams school at a salary of $35 per month, together with $1 per month additional for each room under charge as principal, making the $42 per month.

3rd. That Miss Eva Bostwick, Wis., be appointed as assistant high school at a salary of $42 per month.

Jefferson Helen Gately of the 5th, Washington school, be extra sewer first grade in the Lincoln school.

same gradetie M. Kent of Washington sixth grades of 6th. That transferred to the Washington school in the seventh and eighth school be discontinued in some Parliamentary extra.

Commissioner Burpee took the names be acted upon was lost and Commissioner, ham introduced an amendment Miss Bostwick's salary month. He believed that if she in the position she on receive any salary that went w the other school teachers were getting $60 a month, and if a Janesville girl came in and did the work she ought to get the same salary. The salary ought to go with the position. It was virtually saying that she was inferior to the other teachers. He thought it was an insult to offer her fifty dollars.

Commissioner Goldin stated that Miss Paulson had taught for several years for fifty dollars.

Commissioner Cunningham—"She has been getting sixty dollars the last three years."

Commissioner Clemons thought that the salary would prove satisfactory, as Miss Bostwick, in making her application, had stated that she could consider a position in the grade schools, and if she had accepted such a position it would have been at a much less salary than the present position offered.

The Question of Salaries. Commissioner Shearer wanted to know the use of adopted rules and not living up to them. He provided that teachers receive as large a salary as experienced teachers.

Commissioner Cunningham said he considered that Miss Bostwick was an exceptional good scholar. He did not consider if she could not fill other teacher could not vote for her. The position Cunningham's amendment Miss Bostwick's salary to $60 sixty dollars was lost from the vote.

by the commissioners Burpee and Ayes—2.

Cunningham, Clemons, Goldin, Noes, Shearer and Weisend—5. din, Hober Burpee's motion to Com name of Ada L. drop from the report was lost.

Brainers Burpee, Cunningham Corner voting aye and Commissioner Clemons, Goldin, Shearer and sid no. The report of the commission on teachers was then adopted unanimously and the board adjourned.

BATTLE OF THE BOYNE IN DEBATE

Two Men Who Know Things Dispute As to The Actual Date

"Battle of the Boyne tomorrow," said a first ward man who celebrates anniversaries.

"You're off; the battle of the Boyne was fought July 1, 1690," said a man who knows everything.

They left it to a newspaper man, and he with great diplomacy explained that they were both right; that the battle of the Boyne was fought July 1, according to the old calendar, but that the slip of eleven days in adopting the new calendar made July 12 the actual anniversary.

Celebrations held tomorrow will be legal.

SAENGERFEST A BIG AFFAIR.

Janesville Society Will Not Attend But Will Send Delegates.

Herman Buchholz and Philip Koch will be delegates and Charles F. Brockhaus and Charles E. Herrmann alternates from Concordia society to the seventeenth biennial Saengerfest of the Northwestern Saengerbund, to be held in Dubuque July 23-26. Fifty societies will be present from Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota. Four grand concerts will be given with a chorus of twelve hundred singers, assisted by Bach's orchestra, of Milwaukee, fifty musicians, all artists. Excursion rates will be given on the railroads.

MONEY NEEDED FOR CHARITY.

Much Sickness and Distress Is Reported About the City.

The Associated Charities needs money. During the past few weeks of hot weather, much sickness has prevailed among the poorer families, and an unusual number of calls have been made for medicine and supplies.

The shutting down of the cotton mills has made additional work for the association and altogether the outlook is very gloomy.

MISS BENNETT GETS TICKETS.

She Was Worth From the Street Railway Company.

Judge J. E. Bennett is a staunch supporter of the Janesville street railroad. He has made the largest single ticket purchase listed since Superintendent Ogden took charge, buying $25 worth and getting a special cash discount.

HORSE GETS THE "JAW."

Not a Scratch on Him, But a Clearly Marked Disease Is

Edwin Paul's horse has the "jaw" and veterinary surgeons are working him with interest. He was found in the pasture without a scratch on him, but suffering with lock-jaw of a clearly defined type. Dr. Robert Brown reports, however, that recovery is only a matter of time.

Fifteen Days in Yellowstone Park.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company desires to call attention to a very completely arranged tour through the Wonderland of America, under the management of the well-known tourist manager, Mr. J. J. Gratton. The party will leave Chicago on Tuesday evening, July 21, by electric lighted train, with dining car, to be absent three weeks. The petrified forest and many other attractive features of the park will be included in the itinerary, that the traveler, going through the ordinary way, does not see. A party will also leave Chicago for Alaska via Yellowstone Park, the same date.

For full particulars, call on the agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.

Foosball Man's Argument.

"But there's nothing wrong with bloomers," she protested.

"Oh, no," he answered. "There's nothing intrinsically wrong with tights, either, but I wouldn't care to have my daughter wear them as a regular thing."

And thereupon she said he was a narrow-minded man and the argument ended.—Chicago Evening Post.

Obedient Orders.

Miss Belle—Mary, remember I am at home to none but Mr. Vere Brownkins this afternoon.

ARMY WORMS HERE IN LARGE NUMBERS

WARNING SENT OUT FROM MADISON TODAY.

Farmers Urged to Take Steps Against The Ravages of the Pest—Trench Made Across the Path Said to Be The Most Effective Remedy.

Word was sent out today from Madison that the army worm has appeared in several points in our state. This pest is a "worm" from an inch to one and half inches in length, of greenish color with dark stripes on the back and sides. When troublesome it suddenly appears in vast numbers and after cleaning all of the vegetation where first observed it passes like an army to new feeding grounds.

In its perfect state the so-called worm or larva transforms to a moth which flies in the night time.

The main interest to the farmer, however, is to save his crops from the ravages of this serious pest when it appears. Unfortunately, there is little use of trying to fight the army worm in the fields where it first is seen, and the best plan for the farmer is to wait until it moves to new quarters and destroy it while on the way.

To accomplish this a deep furrow should be plowed, making the wall of the furrow so straight that when the worms attempt to climb it they will fall back; as they accumulate in the ditch a log should be dragged along its bottom which will crush the worms and thus destroy them.

The worms may also be destroyed by sprinkling Paris green on the herbage where they are feeding, but this endangers the lives of the live stock which may graze on such pastures.

In grain fields where the worm crawls up the stems, it is sometimes held in check by two persons taking a rope and stretching it across a part of the field, pass forward dragging the rope over the heads of grain which will spring back as the rope passes over and throw the worms to the ground.

This process must be repeated as often as the worms climb up the stems.

The chief remedy to be used is that of checking their march by the use of the furrow and crushing by the log or pole drawn in the furrow as above recommended.

SQUATTED ON A CHOICE CAMP SITE

James Calkins Takes Possession of the "Lone Fisherman's" Property.

Several Janesville people are interested in the ownership of a piece of property on the shore of Lake Koshkonong. The property for seventeen years was occupied by a lone fisherman, known as Hawks. Not long ago Hawks died and the property has just been "squatted on" by James Calkins, of Jefferson, who declares that it is government property and that he means to hold it. Other campers differ from him but at last accounts he was still master of the institution.

BELOIT DEMOCRAT STEPS OUT.

Ex-Postmaster Hall Says He Can't Stand the Chicago Platform.

Beloit is not all free silver despite the claims of the Metcalks and the Buckleys. Ex-Postmaster W. T. Hall, a recognized leader of the Beloit democracy advises every person who cares for his country and wishes for the welfare of society to help defeat the Chicago ticket and its abominable platform. "No true American can stand upon it," Mr. Hall declares.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1708 - Battle of Andenarde, Marlborough and Prince Eugene defeated the French.

1707 - John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States, born at Braintree, Mass., died 1845.

1771 - Commodore John Rodgers, American naval hero, born in Philadelphia, died 1858.

1808 - Commodore John Rodgers was the father of the famous Admiral John Rodgers of the Union navy. The commodore himself was the son of a Scotchman who fought in the Revolution. He went to sea at 13 and was captain of a merchantman at 18. In early manhood he entered the navy. The country was then engaged in hostilities with France. When the Constellation fought L'Insurgente, Rodgers was executive officer of the American ship. He served with gallantry in Tripoli, and as captain of the President fired the first shot of the war of 1812.

1774 - Sir William Johnson, famous pioneer and Indian manager, died near Johnston, N. Y.; born in Ireland 1715.

1804 - Alexander Hamilton killed in a duel by Aaron Burr; born 1757.

1895 - Milan Carvalho, famous French prima donna and the original Marguerite, died at Dieppe.

A FIE CANDIDATE.

No more logical nomination could have been made in Chicago than that of William J. Bryan.

Who so fit to stand on a platform framed by mine-owners, as a paid spokesman for the silver combine?

Seven years ago the mine-owners recognized the value of Bryan's glib, plausible turn of tongue, and took him into their employ. He sat in congress as their paid attorney, and since he left congress has been their salaried agent, has run their errands and eaten their bread.

His nomination was not brought about by democrats—Bryan has not for three years been a democrat. He formally renounced democracy and joined the popu-larists 1894.

His nomination was made by mine owners, the men who move to corrupt the republican convention and who failed so utterly. The populists and the Most-Altgeld stripe anarchists and socialists play into their hands, but not igno-ly. The prospect of general confusion and a general re-adjustment of values led out to them the same hope of that a great fire or wide-spread disaster does to the petty thief.

It rests with business men to rebuke the treason of the Chicago convention has planned. To the credit of the country be it said that democrats and republicans bid fair to stand together now that the question of popu-lar debt-repudiation and of whole-sale commercial dishonesty has been fairly raised.

RUN BY DEBT-SHIRKERS.

There is no mincing of phrases when sound money democrats speak of the Chicago convention. The Chicago Chronicle declares that the convention was run by "the disappointed gray backs of the confederate armies and their kindred, the moonshining lazzaroni of the mountain districts of the south, and the whooping desperadoes, silver monopolists and debt shirkers of the far west, who never voted a democratic ticket and never intend to."

"The convention voiced the ignorance and the immorality, the covetousness and the dishonesty of the least enlightened elements of our population," says this democratic mouth-piece, and it makes this ringing declaration:

"It is necessary that the democrats of the United States should call another convention."

"The convention held in the Coliseum in Chicago, has been controlled by the foes of commerce, of labor, of sound finance and of democracy. It has no title to the claim democratic."

"The duty devolves upon the democratic leaders who have been ignored, reviled and scoffed at by the enemies of democracy in the Coliseum gathering to issue a call for a democratic convention."

"Ample time remains for the assembling of such a convention. With proper concert of action among the leaders of democracy in the various states the preliminaries can be arranged at once and the convention can be held not later than September 1."

"The democrats of the country have not been represented at Chicago. They have been delivered into the hands of their enemies. They must meet and organize against their foes."

"Let another convention be called."

The directors of the Mercantile National bank, of New York city didn't want Mr. St. John, their president, to go to Chicago to advocate free silver.

He went, but not as president of that bank. The directors accepted his resignation before he started.

Many a democrat who talks bolt will be found voting his party ticket on election day. Fortunately the election of McKinley and Hobart does not depend upon the action of disgruntled democrats.

Who was it that said Kansas republicans were not all right? A poll of the 284 republican papers in Kansas shows 265 supporting McKinley and Hobart and the St. Louis platform. Two only have bolted.

The Florida courts are not as hard on alleged Cuban filibusters as the officers of the Revenue Marine service are; but then the Florida courts are not under administration orders.

No fault has been found of the knickerbockers worn by the "new" woman who plunged into Rockland Lake the other day and saved a drowning boy.

Secretary Herbert will make his usual tour of the Atlantic coast summer resorts, in a government vessel. But this is the last time he will "inspect navy yards."

Present indications are that Cleveland and Carlisle, especially the latter, will need all the law practice they can get, after the 4th of next March.

Pitchfork Tillman's "16 to 1 or bust," may now be changed to 16 to 1 and busted.

The Silk Market.

Within the past ten days we have bought and received twenty pieces of black silks which are of exceptional values at the prices we paid for them. The silk market at present is extremely low and it is an easy matter to purchase fine qualities at very low figures. We offer all those twenty pieces, together with the stock we already had at a reduction. Read our large ad. for particulars. Bort, Bailey & Co.

Frank Hurd Is Dead.

Toledo, O., July 11.—The Hon. Frank Hurd died a few minutes before 9 o'clock Friday morning. His death was caused by apoplexy, the first stroke occurring at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This was followed by others in rapid succession. Ten days ago he was taken with a slight case of dizziness, which made it necessary for him to remain in his room. It was not considered dangerous, however, and he gained rapidly from the effect of the attack. The city is in mourning over the sudden death of one of its most prominent citizens.

WOMAN'S LONG HOURS.

SHE TOILS AFTER MAN'S DAYS' WORK IS DONE.

What She Has to Contend With—Work That Sooner or Later Breaks Down Her Delicate Organism.

The great majority of women "work to live" and "live to work," and as the hands of the clock approach the hour of six, those employed in stores, offices, mills and factories, hail closing time with joy.

They have won their day's bread, but some duties are yet to be performed, and many personal matters to be attended to. They have mending to do, and dresses or bonnets to make, and long into the night they toil, for they must look neat, and they have no time during the day to attend to personal matters.

Women, therefore, notwithstanding their delicate organism, work longer and more closely than men.

They do not promptly heed such signs as headache, backache, blues, pains in the groins, bearing-down, "all gone" feeling, nervousness, loss of sleep and appetite, whites, irregular or painful monthly periods, cold and swollen feet, etc., all symptoms of womb trouble, which, if not quickly checked, will launch them in a sea of misery.

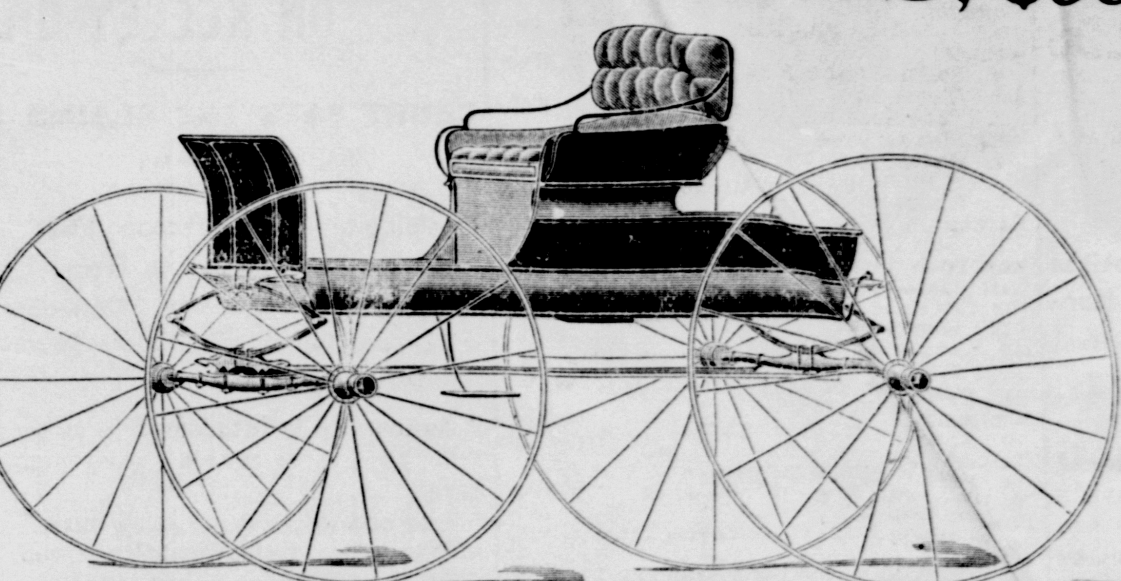

There is but one absolute remedy for all those ills. Any woman who has to earn her own living will find it profitable to keep her system fortified with this tried and true woman's friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which removes the cause and effects a lasting cure.

We are glad to produce such letters as the following from Miss M. G. McNamee, 114 Catherine St., Utica, N.Y.: "For months I had been afflicted with that tired feeling, no ambition, no appetite, and a heavy bearing-down feeling of the uterus. I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Soon those bad feelings passed away; I began to have more ambition, my appetite improved and I gained rapidly in every way, and now I am entirely well. I advise all my friends to use the Compound, it is woman's truest friend."

MAKING A SONNET.

I snapped me out a form: I would invite
A sonnet to be regular as a bow
Of promise in the heavens, that we do know
Shows always seven colors to the sight.
And twice seven lines are in a sonnet, quite.
The octave now is making a good show,
And will be ended soon, to my delight.
I've heard of sonnet writers that, in woe,
Sat up all hours so as to get it right.

The sestet's not so hard as the octave,
But hard enough for me. Why should I sigh?
'Tis true the task's not comical, nor grave,
Nor hopeless is it, or I should not try
To sing a little running music stave,
Which ought the Petrarch cult to satisfy.
—Edward S. Creamer in New York Sun.

HIS IDEAL WOMAN.

The first thing I did on getting back from India was to spend a week with my people in the country. A good deal can happen in five years, and we naturally had plenty to talk about. But I tore myself away at last with a promise to return for August and settled myself in town in my old lodgings off St. James street.

Apart from the various business matters requiring my attention—my investments had not improved during my absence, and it was necessary to cast my eye about for other securities—London, at the moment, appealed to me irresistibly.

There, within the four mile radius, was massed the whole of what I had missed during my five years in a remote station in Burma—the life, the motion, the perpetual sense of something going on, of being in close proximity, if not in absolute contact with, the source of current modes of thought, of hearing the ceaseless hum of the wheels of civilization, the throb of actuality, of which not even the echoes had penetrated to the squat white bungalow on the banks of the Irrawadi, where the monotony had not been varied by even so much as a moment's fighting, and one made up for saving one's intellectual by overfeeding one's physical instincts.

Once in town, I found myself plunged into a vortex of amusement. There were old friends to be "looked up." When "looked up," they insisted on dinner, to be followed by a theater or music hall. Some of the men I had "done the town" with five years before had got married. I had to make the acquaintance of their wives. Others who had been married had been divorced. I had to forget that they had ever been married.

One way and another I was so busy that it was not till the end of a month I remembered that I had not seen my old friend. He had always been "one of the old days at Oxford and how prepared for anything and across and I could not make out what I had not already come to know.

"Oh, he had," said Benson, the never see you. I asked him what to be in love. He is supposed to be just going. I believe he brooding over her, a girl, and she Anyway, no one has been him anywhere, though I was to see the same old rooms in I will get and look him up by all means. Go don't suppose you'll be able to find him. As I say, he never seems to be out anywhere, though, as you know, used to be such a great ladies' man.

"With strong views as to the ideal woman," I put in, remembering various conversations we had had on the subject. "Yes," assented Benson, "he was always great on the woman question, talking about 'the perfect type,' and all that sort of bosh. He always was a bit of a dreamer."

"Perhaps," I said maliciously, "that may account for his never being seen now. He may have found this type and be keeping her to himself."

"Perhaps," said Benson. "However, you go and see him. You and he used to be such terrific pals you may be able to get more out of him than we other fellows have been able to do."

"Well, I'll go anyway," I said. I went down to the temple that very night. My loud knock on the outer door of his chambers brought Wetherby himself to open it. It struck me that he looked half confused, half annoyed, as if I had surprised him at a moment when he was occupied with other matters and resented intrusion. I wondered whether, after all, the "perfect type" theory was right.

I put my suspicion aside, however, when, recognizing me at last in the semi-obscurity of the staircase, he seized my hand and shook it warmly. "My dear fellow," he said, "I am delighted to see you. When did you get back?" He overwhelmed me with questions as I followed inside and pulled a chair up to the open window facing his own. For an hour we sat talking over old times and smoking. The conversation, reminiscent, as for the most part it was, enabled me to see that in some respects he was changed from the man I had seen five years before. He spoke more deliberately—slower. As Benson had remarked, he had always had a tendency to dream. The tendency seemed accentuated. At times he was silent for a minute together, puffing meditatively at his pipe. A last I could not help questioning him even at the risk of giving offense. "Benson says," I remarked, "that you are quite different from what you used to be. You never go out anywhere. What is it? You remember our talking about the 'perfect type.' You have not found her? You are not in love?"

He was silent a moment, puffing out huge clouds of smoke. Then "Look here, old fellow," he said. "I don't know why I should not tell you. These other fellows could not understand if I did tell them."

"I am afraid you are crediting me with more intelligence than I possess," I said. "If what you propose to tell me would pass Benson's understanding, I am afraid it would also pass mine."

"You underrate yourself. Besides, after all, it is quite simple, only Benson is such a material person. The Stock Exchange has made him worse. Anyway, I am going to tell you."

"Yes?" I said invitingly.

"You remember," he said, settling himself back in his chair. "I had always my own views about women."

"You expected a great deal," I said. "Well," he went on, not heeding the interruption, "you know I can well afford to marry. If I had found the woman I wanted, I should have married long ago. I could not find her, much as I sought. The clever woman had no beauty, the beautiful no brains, or, where the combination did exist, the woman was already married, or had some equally prohibitive defect."

"You sought for what did not exist," I said. "There is no ideal woman, as there is no ideal man."

"Not in your sense," he said. "Certainly not in the sense of a man like Benson, if he can conceive the possibility of an ideal woman at all, or an ideal anything."

"And in yours?" I said.

He rose from his chair and going to a long drawer in a cabinet took out from it an armful of photographs—there must, I should think, have been some 50 there in all. "Just look through these," he said.

I did so, wondering. Every type of female face and female beauty was there represented, from the English and American woman to the French and Austrian, from the creole to the Caucasian, from the daughter of the people to the daughter of the peer. Some of the faces might well have been those of saints; others were indubitably those of sinners. Barmahs jostled against Sisters of Mercy; actresses followed on the princesses of the blood royal. Some of the faces were too utilitarianly clever to approach physical beauty; others, again, proclaimed the triumph of body over soul.

"Well?" I said at length, still more astonished.

He spread out the photos on the table before him, eyeing them lovingly, fondling them as a man fondles the woman who is to be his wife. "There," he said, pointing to the rows of faces before him, "you have a perfect type. I tried to find it existing in one woman. You were right. It was impossible, but I have got it there."

"Yes," I said, smiling at his intensity, "but these are only mere photographs. The essence of them constitutes the perfect type of womanhood, no doubt, but these things are not alive. They are mere counterfeit presentments. You are not a nineteenth century Pygmalion. You cannot make mere photographs live."

"Perhaps not," he said. "At least, who can tell? I know that when I gaze long on these faces I conjure up from their various characteristics the perfect type of woman and can never care for any one else—I mean any woman. This face I have erected represents to me the supreme essence of feminine loveliness, the one woman for whom a man should be glad to die, for whom I would die, did she require me, this very minute. People tell you I never go out anywhere. How can I when this splendid beauty smiles before me at home? I tell you I never lived till I knew her, and now I cannot live with her. To me she is the one woman in this world, or the next. Indeed, not the one woman, but woman herself."

left Wetherby's chambers half an hour wondering if my old friend had gone mad. As I turned to close the door behind me I saw him suddenly cover the table and sweeping over his knees together into his arms kisses. —E. a rain of passionate

For the Milwaukee Races.

Excursion tickets will be sold at low rates via the Northwestern line every Wednesday and Saturday until July 25, inclusive. For tickets and full information apply to agents Chicago & Northwestern R'y.

When we consider that the intestines are about five times as long as the body, we can realize the intense suffering experienced when they become inflamed. DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure subdues inflammation at once and completely removes the difficulty. C. D. Stevens.

Home Seekers' Excursion. On July 7 and 21, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round trip excursion tickets limited to twenty-one days at half fare to points on its own lines in Iowa, Minnesota, Dakota and Northern Wisconsin; also to points on other lines in southern, western and northern states. Two dollars will be added to half fare for return passage.

For Over Fifty Years Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures whooping cough, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

"Wake up, Jacob, day is breaking!" So said DeWitt's Little Early Risers to the man who had taken them to arouse the sluggish liver. C. D. Stevens.

Fast Train For Devil's Lake.

Leaves Janesville 4:05 p. m. every Saturday and arrives at Devil's Lake at 6:20 p. m. Returning leaves Devil's Lake every Monday at 6:16 a. m. and arrives at Janesville at 8:35 a. m. For reduced rate excursion tickets apply to agents Chicago & Northwestern R'y.

It would be hard to convince a man suffering from bilious colic that his agony is due to a microbe with an unpronounceable name. But one dose of DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure will convince him of its power to afford instant relief. It kills pain. C. D. Stevens.

For Ocean Steamship Tickets.

Via the Beaver Line from Montreal to Liverpool, or via any steamship line crossing the Atlantic, at lowest rates for first cabin, second cabin and steerage, both outward and prepaid, apply to P. L. Hinrichs, agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y., at Janesville, Wis., or address C. F. Wenham, Gen'l Steamship Agent, 48 Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

Persons who have a coughing spell every night, on account of a tickling sensation in the throat, may overcome it at once by a dose of One Minute Cough Cure. C. D. Stevens.

Half Rate to St. Louis, Mo.

On account of the National Populist convention and the American Silver convention, the Northwestern line will on July 19, 20 and 21 sell excursion tickets to St. Louis, Mo. and return at half rates—one fare for the round trip—good for return passage until July 17, 1896, inclusive. For tickets and full information apply to Chicago & Northwestern R'y.

Pass the good word along the line. Piles can be quickly cured without an operation by simply applying De Witt's W. H. Hazel Salve. C. D. Stevens.

About the Deils of The Wisconsin.

Parties of ten or more going to and returning from the Deils of Wisconsin in a body, may make the trip at half fare, with fifty cents added for each person for steamer coupon, any day from June 5 to September 30. Tickets good for three days. Every Friday and Saturday tickets will be sold at a fare and a third with fifty cents added for steamer for round trip, to any number good for return until Monday. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.

We have a full stock of plated coffee and tea pots at the very lowest of figures. The goods are very nice. Lowell Hardware Co.

FOR ELDERLY WOMEN.

Attire No Longer Made Especially Staid and Severe.

Special styles for elderly and old ladies are no longer created, for there is no demand for them. Women no longer grow old, no matter how many years have passed over them—at least they do not grow old in the old fashioned way. Time was, and not so very, very long ago, that a woman of 50 wore large caps and only the plainest and severest of clothing and was deemed past all living interest in the world and its doing or any personal desires and ambitions of her own. Fortunately we have changed all that, and the modern woman of 50 is usually quite as well abreast of the times in respect of information, fashion and occupation as younger ones. Often a woman does not really begin to achieve anything in a business or profession until she has reached that age when she has had time to learn from observation and experience.

All the prevailing modes can be adapted for elderly women by being made a little more serious in color and trimming. Rich materials are peculiarly suited to the dignity of age, and the richer the goods the simpler should be the fashion in which they are made. While frivolous effects should be avoided, there is no sense or good taste in abandoning all daintiness and fashion of costume. The short cape may be lengthened, the Louis Quinze coat may be shorn of its abundant fur-trimmed, hats may be superseded by bonnets and a general quietness of color predominate, but there is no reason for paying any less attention to dress than was given at the age of 25 years. Sons and daughters like to see their mother well and fashionably attired, and to be conscious of looking young and well gives one feelings to match.

The illustration shows a Louis Quinze coat, with a short basque forming postillions at the back. It is of broche taffeta, set on a violet ground, and has double revers, the larger of violet faille, the smaller of white satin. The vest, which is double breasted, is of white satin and is ornamented with large steel buttons. The taffeta sleeves, which are close to the arm, have mediæval cuffs and a puff at the top gathered lengthwise. The cravat is of white tulle.

How to Clean Jewelry—The Complexion Better Left Alone.

Jewelry of gold or silver and jewels mounted in those metals can be cleaned safely and well with a soft brush and soap and water. If the stones are numerous and the mounting complicated, it is best to rub the article afterward with powdered starch, in order to remove any moisture which may remain in the crevices and which would be likely to make it dull. When the jewelry has been cleaned, it should be placed in a box of bran and shaken for some time. It thus obtains a polish and brilliancy without any danger of being grated or scratched. Another way of cleaning jewelry is to dip it in alcohol and then shake it in a box of sawdust.

It would be instructive to know how many women of fairly good, natural complexion have been inspired by complexionists' and dermatologists' published advice to put themselves through a tiresome and exacting regime in the hope of regaining the condition of skin which they enjoyed at the age of six months. Of course they don't regain it. The most beautiful woman in the world cannot vie in complexion with a healthy baby, whose skin has not had time to thicken or toughen, and who never faces cold or tempest. When anybody appears to have an infant's skin, the appearance is invariably due to skillfully applied cosmetics, not to steaming or massage or diet. There is no doubt that a bad complexion may be cleared by regulating the digestion, or, if the badness is due to a skin disease, by local applications, but the elaborate processes for rendering the complexion like that of a wax doll are a waste of time, effort and brain. Good soap and water and plenty of it, a little camphor ice or glycerin, an occasional alcohol bath and some fine make of toilet powder are all that the average woman needs or that will do her any good.

An illustration is given of an evening gown the skirt of which is of white silk brocaded with large roses and having satin stripes. There is a seam in front, and the stripes form points where the breadths meet. The draped bodice is of pink mousseline de soie embroidered with beads and spangles. The round décolletage is framed in a bertha of old point, which is carried down over the sleeves to form epaulets. The bertha is headed by a line of beads that forms a Louis Seize knot in front, from which two strands are festooned to the left shoulder. The sleeves are of mousseline de soie, terminating in a ruffle. The belt, bows and choux are of green satin.

"And to think," shrilly vociferated Mrs. Absalom Joyce, when the family quarrel had reached its acute stage, "that my wealth would once have brought to my feet many a man worth a dozen of you! But I thought I wanted you and I bought you! I simply bought you!"

"You are right, my dear!" retorted Absalom, pale with wrath; "you paid your money and took your Joyce."—Tit-Bits.

Aunt (to little Oscar)—What dress had your mother on when she drove off to the party this evening? Oscar—A long, white short dress. "Nonsense, it could not be long and short at the same time." "Yes, aunty. It was long at the bottom and short at the top."—To Date.

When they put a man in jail, he cannot follow his natural inclinations. He cannot eat what he wants to—he is limited to a very frugal diet. Is it not equally true of a dyspeptic? For all of the real enjoyment he gets out of life, he might as well be in jail. He cannot eat what he likes, nor enough. He suffers much, gets little sympathy. At first, perhaps a little heaviness in the stomach, a little sourness, windy belchings and heartburn. Headaches and biliousness and a foul taste in the mouth in the morning. Chronic constipation is almost inevitable, and means that the body is holding poisonous, impure matter that should be gotten rid of. The poison is being reabsorbed into the blood and the whole body. Impurity in the blood may lead to almost any disease. Constipation is the start of it all. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, cure it so it stays cured. No other remedy in the world will do that. Of druggists.
